FOREWORD

How This Book Can Help You

This is a book of triple power. It combines a presentation of the magical virtues within the 150 Psalms of the Holy Bible, the ancient art of candle burning and an unusual method of invoking the Divine Names of Power.

In order to gain the greatest benefit from this book, the reader is encouraged to proceed in the following manner. First, a practitioner of this work must keep his other activities confidential. The reason for this is obvious when we realize that not all people believe in this work. One thing the practitioner does not need is to be discouraged by those who think negatively. One who seeks to improve oneself by these methods must practice with friends of like mind, and be silent about it while in the presence of those who do not believe.

The practitioner must also approach this work with confidence that the Higher Power, that we call God, will reward every sincere effort. Divine Mind, or God, does not accept only those of a formal religious persuasion, but all who have a sincere heart, regardless of formal religious affiliation or the lack of it, for the highest religion is to search for truth wherever we are. You are the Living Temple of God, and the whole universe is your kingdom.

Finally, let the practitioner of this sacred art maintain a positive mental attitude. Do not try too hard to believe; simply perform your work in a relaxed condition, knowing that you are doing something of value that will bring positive results into your life. Whenever you finish your work, go about your daily routine with a calm attitude of expectancy - until the next session. Constant effort with simple faith are stepping stones to success in any type of effort.

The information in this book is divided into three sections which combine to form a profound magical art of triple potency.

The first section reveals the art of preparing candles to attract desired conditions, and to repel unwanted conditions.

The second section reveals an unusual technique to invoke the power of the Divine Names, associated with the magical power of the Book of Psalms.

The third section reveals the purpose for each of the Psalms, and how to use them with the unique methods of the first two sections. As a matter of convenience, we have included all of the Psalms from the King James version of the Holy Bible.

And now may your every effort be crowned with abundant success, as you embark on your journey into the realm of Bible Magick.

INTRODUCTION

The Best Times For Magick

Nearly all books on magick tell about the table of Planetary Hours. This means that your astrological sun sign is within the influence of one of the planets at certain hours of the day. Therefore, by finding out which is your planet and which hour of the day that planet rules, you may know the best time to perform your magical work. Also, the hours vary on different days of the week.

The following information reveals the Planetary Hours for each day of the week. These hours are after sunrise on specific days. For example, if on a Tuesday you know that one of your hours is the third hour after sunrise, you must first know when the sun will rise. Your daily newspaper will give you this information, and you should attempt to follow it as closely as possible. The third hour after sunrise would be between 9 and 10 A.M. if the sun arose at 6. A good almanac also has information on the time of sunrise.

1. THE ART OF CANDLE MAGICK

Let us awaken our faculty of imagination, and travel back in time. Visualize a pre-historic man, contemplating his surroundings in awe as he observes the cycles of nature: waking and sleeping, reality and dreams, life and death, light and darkness.

At the hour of sunrise, man eagerly welcomed the light of a new day with its adventures and opportunities. But at sunset, as darkness crept over the land, man experienced a sadness mingled with fear at the approach of another cycle of the great shadow.

We can understand by this contemplation, how primitive human consciousness associated light with positive and desired conditions, and darkness with negative undesired conditions. Primitive man associated light with benevolence from the Great Spirit, and later when he learned to make and use fire, this seemed to give him a power that was extended to him from the Great Spirit. With the sound of every clap of thunder and the sight of every flash of lightning, man imagined the Higher Power to be making fire in the celestial realms. Now, he too, had this power on the terrestrial plane every time he made and used fire.

As time passed, man discovered the use of fire as a means of giving a spark of Divine Light to inner hopes and desires to improve his mundane existence. Perhaps his first efforts were that of carving pictures of his desires on pieces of wood or clay, then burning them in fire. In this, he took the darkness of lack and gave it light, in hopes to improve his condition. Thus the art of praying with fire began.

At a later time, the use of wax tapers came into being, and with it the art of magical candle burning was born. This art has continued to the present day, for many find inner comfort and strength when they seek the solution to life's problems by praying with a candle.

A great soul has said, "Why curse the darkness when you can light a candle?" The ritualistic burning of candles is a form of prayer, which can be performed in a complex and elaborate manner, or in the simplest form.

In this book, we will explore only the simplified forms of this art, because we are combining the magical art of candle burning with the invocation of Divine Names and the Power of the Psalms. This three-fold combination will serve the practitioner as a most powerful tool for dealing with the problems of life. However, there are two basic principles of candle burning magick, that we will consider at this time.

COLOR

It is commonly known within metaphysical circles, that color plays a great part in healing work. It is also known that a specific color can trigger a psychic response from the subconscious mind, as a means of tapping the inner power to accomplish a chosen purpose.

Color has been applied to candle burning for centuries in one form or another. There are many theories as to which color candle to use for a given purpose. Most of these theories agree, but some may contradict the others. However, for the purpose of clarity in the present work, we have broken down the candle color and purpose correspondence in a simplified form.

Red - Energy or Love

Pink - Love

Green - Money and Good Fortune

Blue - Healing or Psychic Development

Purple - Power over enemies, Personal Power,
Or Spiritual Attainment

PREPARING A CANDLE TO ATTRACT

When you wish to attract a certain thing into your life such as healing, good fortune, money, love, etc. You must prepare the candle by applying oil to it as you hold a mental picture of your desire. Some practitioners use olive oil, others use a special purpose oil for anointing candles, which can be obtained from spiritual/occult supply stores.

To anoint a candle to attract, the practitioner must apply some oil to the bottom of the candle on one side, then rub upward and stop at the center. Then one applies oil to the top of the candle, rub downward and stop at the same center spot.

PREPARING A CANDLE TO REPEL

When you wish to repel something from your life such as psychic attack, ill fortune, undesirable conditions and situations, etc., apply the oil as follows. Apply some oil to the center of the candle on one side, then rub downward to the bottom. Then apply oil to the same center spot and rub upward to the top of the candle.

You will refer to this chapter when instructed to prepare a specific color candle for a given purpose, as given later in this book.

HOW LONG A CANDLE SHOULD BURN

Later in this work, you will be instructed to prepare a candle to either attract or repel, depending upon the purpose. You will then be instructed to carve a Divine Name of Power on the candle, then light the candle to commence your prayer ritual. Following are some basic rules to help you obtain the best results.

First, it is best to use only one candle for each purpose. Once you prepare a candle for a special purpose, do not use that candle for any other reason.

The second rule is that you must burn the candle only while you are performing the chosen prayer ritual from this book. When you have finished, extinguish the flame, allow to cool, then put the candle away until your next session for the same purpose.

It is alright to ritual for several different things at once, but not in the same session. For example, you can ritual for a financial blessing, and when you have finished, put that candle away. Then you can begin working with the next candle for another purpose.

The third rule is that when your candle has burned down to a stub, you should dispose of it properly. Some practitioners of this art wrap the leftover wax in a piece of cloth and bury it. Others prefer to throw it into running water. You may select the method that suits you.

2. THE DIVINE NAMES OF POWER

The Great Spirit has many names, each having a virtue to channel Divine Power into a life or situation when used in a correct manner.

The Divine Names of Power, as they are commonly known, are hidden within the scriptures. They were discovered by the technique known as Gematria, that is often used by mystics to find the hidden within the obvious. This is part of the mystical system known as the Kabbalah, said to have been communicated to wisdom by Divine Revelation.

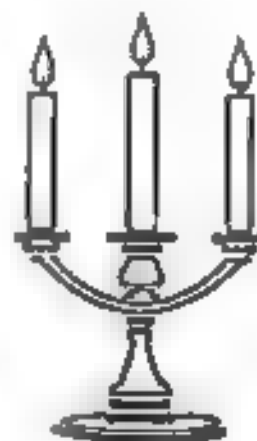

Divine Names, when written or spoken in a certain way, release an awesome power for great accomplishments.

Many of the Divine Names are hidden within the Psalms and this accounts for their potential as tools for magical accomplishments.

Later in this book, you will be instructed to prepare a certain colored candle in two ways to help you accomplish a specific purpose. The first way is to prepare the candle to attract or repel, depending upon the purpose. For this you would follow the instructions in chapter one. The second way is to carve the Divine Name for that purpose on the candle. Some practitioners use a knife or letter opener to carve the Divine Name on the candle. Others use a special talisman called the Glorious Sword, or the Sword of St. Michael.

It is best not to repeat the Divine Names out loud, unless the practitioner is able to pronounce them in the Hebrew language correctly.

To carve the Divine Names of Power on candles is a technique of silent invocation to the power within that name, and this will be the special method that you will use for the work in this book.

3. THE POWER OF THE PSALMS

The Biblical Book of Psalms has long been regarded as a book of personal power. This is because there are Divine Names and words of power hidden within its passages, as in all sacred writings.

Since the fall of man, Angelic Beings have communicated to the human race certain formulas by which humanity could regain the lost power of its original state. This body of teaching has been called the Secret Doctrine, the Kabbalah, and by other terms.

This knowledge was mastered by the Prophet Moses, and handed down from generation to generation. It was expressed in a beautiful form by the author of the Psalms, generally believed to be King David.

Many practitioners of the Secret Wisdom use the Psalms as a tool to improve their condition in life, according to techniques handed down through the ages. There are traditional uses for the Psalms that have been given for the benefit of mankind. However, in this book the student will discover a slight variation of some of the older methods, in accordance with the techniques of triple power. These have been tested by the author with favorable results.

HOW TO USE THE PSALMS

A practitioner of the triple power technique, as taught in this book, must first prepare the candle as described in chapter one. The next step is to carve the Divine name of the selected Psalm on the candle. The practitioner must then light the candle and begin their ritual.

The first step of the ritual is to repeat the prescribed Psalm out loud. What follows should be a sincere prayer, asking for the desired help in accomplishing your special purpose. I always instruct my students to pray in their own words, for then the prayer will be from the heart. Finally one should remain in silent meditation on desired results for a few moments before closing the ritual.

You will notice that several of the Psalms are used for the same purpose. You should select the Psalm that you feel most in harmony with; when you pray, ask the Supreme Power for help, healing guidance, or whatever, as you would ask a favor from a friend.

In regards to the Divine Names, you will notice two special details. The first is that the same Divine name may occur in more than one Psalm. The second detail is that some of the Psalms do not have a designated Divine name. In this case you are instructed to carve the initials I.H.V.H. on the candle. These initials symbolize the unpronounceable name of God. This is termed the "Tetragrammaton", by Initiates.

The 119th. Psalm contains twenty two divisions of eight verses each. This repetition of the number eight is symbolic of a new beginning; as number seven is called "the number of perfection", eight is believed to be the number of the state beyond perfection, or "the number of a new beginning".

At the head of the twenty two divisions are the twenty two letters of the Hebrew Alphabet. Initiates of the Kabbalah believe that one may attain to illumination by a mystical process known as "the Thirty Two Paths of Wisdom". These are ten numbers and twenty two letters. The ten numbers represent ten emanations, or manifestations of God in each of four realms of existence. The twenty two letters represent hidden forces of nature; three for the primal elements of air, water and fire; seven for the seven planetary influences; and twelve for the twelve signs of the Zodiac. All of these have a twofold symbolism. I will not go into such detail about this in the present work. However, I thought it necessary to touch upon the power of the twenty two letters to point out the hidden power in this one Psalm alone. One does not need to read the entire 119th. Psalm for a specific purpose, but just the division of eight verses, which I have indicated for a special purpose.

I have placed a heading beside each Psalm that reveals the purpose for which each one is to be used. This is followed by brief instructions as to the color and preparation of the ritual candle, as well as the Divine Name of Power for that Psalm. Instructions on how to prepare the candles with the Divine Name are in chapter one and two of this work. Review these instructions a few times so that they will be well fixed within your mind.

As you select the various rituals to improve your condition, you must do so with a feeling of expectancy and an attitude of faith, that you will receive the desired help from Higher Realms. When you complete your session, do not think too much about it or worry as to how your help will come. Just be at ease, trying to be aware of opportunities that may arise in your daily life. Repeat a ritual for a specific purpose as often as possible, until you see the desired results. Keep a positive mental attitude, and speak in a more positive manner. As you follow these instructions, you will discover, as many have, that the faithful and sincere use of the Psalms will bless your life with a greater power and harmony with God and all other beings.
